The National Center for Security & Preparedness (NCSP) was established July of 2007. It is affiliated with the Rockefeller College of Public Affairs and Policy at the University at Albany, State University of New York. Its offices are located in Albany, NY but its operations extend across the State of New York and the nation.

Through collaboration, creativity, and a commitment to excellence, the NCSP supports the nation's efforts to be secure from acts of terrorism and to be prepared to respond to incidents of high consequence and disasters through research, education, training, and technical assistance. NCSP has become a global leader and innovator in security and preparedness, the National Center for Security & Preparedness integrates research, education, training, and technical assistance.

About This Project

Client: National Center for Security & Preparedness
Date: 2011–2013
Role: Website Development, Digital Strategy, Content Development, CMS Migration

Project Overview

For the National Center for Security & Preparedness, I led a comprehensive website migration and redesign to better support its mission of educating and preparing public safety professionals.

The project involved migrating the university program's site from RedDot CMS to a custom PHP framework, providing greater flexibility and functionality. Using jQuery libraries, I enhanced interactivity and multimedia capabilities across over 100 pages, creating a more engaging and dynamic user experience.

Key Objectives:

- Ensure a smooth CMS migration with minimal downtime, transferring all content accurately from RedDot CMS to a PHP-based framework.
- Enhance site interactivity and multimedia engagement through the integration of jQuery libraries.
- Design an intuitive, user-centered layout to improve accessibility and streamline navigation.
- Support future scalability for content updates and additional resources.
